

LEADERSHIP IMMERSION

“Real leadership, is about moral courage and personal resilience”

Will Gooderson
Director, Unconventional Leader

THE LEADERSHIP CHALLENGE

Leadership is complex and challenging. For experienced leaders, the courage and resilience required can be overwhelming, especially during times of uncertainty. For emerging leaders, promotion takes them away from the role they know and do well, into positions that often lack adequate training and guidance to effectively deliver.

We understand this challenge and provide a means to support leaders across the spectrum by placing them into complex and challenging environments outside of the workspace and coaching them on the principles of Real Leadership. These principles have been learned at the world's most prestigious academy for leadership, the Royal Military Academy Sandhurst, and honed over 18 years of leading teams in Australia and overseas.

As Leaders we operate in volatile, uncertain, changing and ambiguous times

How effective is your leadership?

- When was the last time you challenged yourself or your leaders in a leadership capacity outside of the office space?
- How often do you stop to acknowledge and reflect on the daily personal and professional challenges you face?
- Are you bringing your best self when you show up to work and interact with your family and friends?
- Could you push yourself out of your comfort zone and immerse yourself in leadership and resilience training that is designed with the combined knowledge of 50 years of military, first responder and corporate experience?
- Are you ready to build a resilient life to enhance your leadership skills?

Our programs have been developed to provide participants with both physical and mental challenges, taking them away from their familiar operating environment and challenging them with 'leadership in the field' scenarios.

PROGRAM OVERVIEW

Our programs are designed deliberately to ensure participants understand as little as possible about the course before attending. The resilience of participants is tested from the start. The rationale behind this becomes apparent as the experience unfolds. Providing learning opportunities for leaders by introducing stress and lack of control in complex situations.

The expectations and outcomes will be different for everyone based upon their self-awareness and approach towards the programs. The techniques used and coaching provided has been developed into a structured program from the instructor's extensive experience developing corporate, frontline first responder and military training evolutions.

Having held leadership positions in extreme environments over their careers, our instructors leverage their insights from their approaches to leadership and resilience and sharing their lessons from experiences when things have not worked as planned.
